

Jennifer L. Etnier

Jennifer is a Professor at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro (UNCG), Department of Kinesiology. She received her degrees from the University of Tennessee (B.S.), University of North Carolina- Chapel Hill (M.A.), and Arizona State University (Ph.D.).

Dr. Etnier has published over 60 journal articles and 15 book chapters in the area of Sport and Exercise Psychology with a focus on the cognitive benefits of physical activity. She has also published a book on Sport Psychology skills for youth athletes. She has given 18 invited presentations and has been an author on 99 national or international presentations.

She has received numerous Honors and Awards included being named Fellow of the American College of Sports Medicine (2004) and the National Academy of Kinesiology (2013), receiving teaching awards including the Health and Human Performance Teaching Award (2010), UNCG Alumni Teaching Excellence Award (2011), and School of Health and Human Sciences Teaching Excellence Award (2016), and receiving awards in recognition of graduate student mentoring including the School of Health and Human Sciences Graduate Mentoring Award (2013) and the UNCG Graduate School's Outstanding Faculty Mentor Award (2014).

Jennifer currently serves as the President of the North American Society for the Psychology of Sport and Physical Activity. She was the Editor of JAPA (2009-2012) and has served as Associate Editor for JSEP (2006-2009) and for JAPA (2005-2009) and as Section Editor for Research Quarterly for Exercise and Sport (2005-2009). She is currently a member of the Editorial Board for Sport, Exercise and Performance Psychology, the Journal of Aging and Physical Activity (JAPA), and the Journal of Sport and Exercise Psychology (JSEP).

